HOME MANAGEMENT HOUSE

The Home Management House was organized in 1946 by Mrs. Lucille Stanley, the Home Economics teacher of Corning High School.

The Home Management House was created to meet the needs of the country girl staying in town. It not only offers a beautiful home but wide experience in home management. The entire household is run by the ten girls with the work being divided up into shifts. The budget was estimated to operate the house at cost. It is a non-profit organization.

The rules and regulations were compiled by the girls, voted on, and sent to the parents for approval. They also elected their own officers.

It was also in the Drake Play Festival which was held during the week of March 14. Last year, I'm A Fool received a superior rating in the speech festival at Tarkio, Missouri.

Two of the members of last year's cast were again in the play this year. These two were Jack Jennings and Ray Gauthier.

The cast is:

George	Jack Jennings
Mother	Doris Johnston
Mildred	Helen Kuhl
The Dude	Russell Olive
Burt	Ray Gauthier
Wilbur	Paul Farris
Lucy	Patricia Johns
Elinor	Patricia Flowers

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

The Junior Class Play of 1946-47 was a comedy in three acts entitled THE FIGHTING LITTLES by Caroline Francke. The cast was made up of the following:

Ham Ellers	Ray Mack
Goody	Betty Karstensen
Mr. Little	John Nevius
Mrs. Little	Virginia Tucker
Antoinette	Mary Alice Carothers
Filmer	Paul Farris
Henriette	Kay Davis
Olita	LaRue Klopp
Hilda	Dorothy Harvey
Norman Peel	Russell Olive
Mrs. Harpeddle	Betty Miller
Dicky Harpeddle	Gerry Gauthier
Cuckoo	Benita Moore
Screwball	Vonnie Harrison
Miss Pologa	Jean Phillips

The entire Little household is usually in an uproar due to Mr. Little's explosive manner of expressing his opinion of his daughter, Goody's ways. He heartily disapproves of all Goody's friends; particularly Ham Ellers. Mr. Little's idea of a proper young man is Norman Peel. Henrietta, Goody's charming room-mate from the South only tends to create more stir among the Littles. She plays up to Ham but finally contents herself with Norman. Filmer and Antoinette add more comedy to the play with their adolescent love-making. Mrs. Little acts as a counter-irritant to the turmoil of her home. After many heated squabbles that all young folks aren't going to the dogs the Littles come to a peaceful understanding.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA

The Corning High School vocal music and speech departments combined efforts to present Handel's "Messiah" on December nineteenth in the high school auditorium.

These tableaux included: The Nativity; The Three Shepherds; Christ the Good Shepherd; the Crucifixion; and The Resurrection. These were accompanied by solo and chorus numbers.

The soloists were Mrs. Kathryn Harrison, Mrs. Helen Hutchison, Nancy Widener, Theresa Curry, Helen Kuhl, and Roland Hegg. The chorus consisted of the high school Mixed Chorus which was supported by several of the townspeople. The accompanists were Marleta Hill, Benita Moore, and Robert Snodgrass.

The tableau cast included: Virginia Tucker, Wilma Smyth, Cleta Schafier, Jean Phillips, Barbara McGregory, Glenna Lovig, LaVonne Hill, Carmalita Devereaux, Doris Johnston, Colin Ankeny, Marvin Lawrence, Dean Miller, Austin Turner, Bob Cline, John Nevius, Bernard Hatton, Delmar Pelmulder, and Leona Keith.

Bob Preston was stage manager and the electricians were Ray Gauthier and Don Johnson. The Junior High ushers were Buddy Vernon, Bobby Scott, Arthur McClelland, Howard Van Pelt, Jimmy Scott, Bob Fleming, Billy Widener, and Ronnie Bassett.

The presentation was directed by Roland Hegg and Grant Herbstruth.
